1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-7 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-11 of copending Application No. 09/988,382. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because each application sets forth essentially similar inventions of displaying images through a lenticular or microlens sheet wherein the sheet is made by extruding or plastic manufacturing methods wherein the forming of the sheet and/or tool which forms the sheet is controlled according to physical constraints and/or image quality of a printer. Compare instant claims 1 and 5 with claim 3 of application -382. The instant application recites physical constraints and image quality which are the basis for the control and further defines the former as a performance characteristic for a printer in claim 5 therein. Application -382 sets forth smallest increment data that a servo can move a print head and it is submitted that this is obvious over the instant printer performance characteristic. While the claims of -382 do not explicitly recite a step of inputting image quality data and using this data, one of ordinary skill in this art would have recognized that the physical constraint data would advantageously have been augmented with image quality data, since ultimately that is what would facilitate forming a high quality microlens sheet.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

3. Claims 1-7 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 10 of copending Application No. 10/008,378. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claim of -378 sets forth a method generally recited as claim 3 in application 09/988,382 almost verbatim but adds additional subject matter. It is well within the skill level of the art to eliminate steps that are deemed to be unnecessary. Hence, as instant claims 1-7 are obvious over claims 1-11 of copending application -382 as set forth in paragraph 2, supra, they are also submitted to have been obvious over claim 10 of copending application -378.

This is provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

4. Claims 1-7 are directed to an invention not patentably distinct from claim 3 of commonly assigned application 09/988,382 and claim 10 of copending application 10/008,378. Specifically, as set forth in paragraphs 2 and 3, supra, the inventions of the copending applications -382 and -378 set forth a method of displaying images through a lenticular or microlens sheet which are not patentably distinct from the instant claims.

Art Unit: 1732

The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office normally will not institute an interference between applications or a patent and an application of common ownership (see MPEP § 2302). Commonly assigned 09/988,382 and 10/008,378, discussed above, would form the basis for a rejection of the noted claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) if the commonly assigned case qualifies as prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) and the conflicting inventions were not commonly owned at the time the invention in this application was made. In order for the examiner to resolve this issue, the assignee is required under 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and 37 CFR 1.78(c) to either show that the conflicting inventions were commonly owned at the time the invention in this application was made or to name the prior inventor of the conflicting subject matter. Failure to comply with this requirement will result in a holding of abandonment of the application.

A showing that the inventions were commonly owned at the time the invention in this application was made will preclude a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) based upon the commonly assigned case as a reference under 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g), or 35 U.S.C. 102(e) for applications filed on or after November 29, 1999.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over copending Application No. 09/988,382 which has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the copending application, it would constitute prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) if published or patented. This provisional rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) is based upon a presumption of future publication or patenting of the conflicting application.

This provisional rejection might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the copending application was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by a showing of a date of invention for the instant application prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the copending application under 37 CFR 1.131. For applications filed on or after November 29, 1999, this rejection might also be overcome by showing that the subject matter of the reference and the claimed invention were, at the time the invention was made, owned by the same person or subject to an obligation of assignment to the same person. See MPEP § 706.02(I)(1) and § 706.02(I)(2).

6. Claims 1-7 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over copending Application No. 10/008,378 which has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the copending application, it would constitute prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) if published or patented. This provisional rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) is based upon a presumption of future publication or patenting of the conflicting application.

This provisional rejection might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the copending application was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by a showing of a date of invention for the instant application prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the copending application under 37 CFR 1.131. For applications filed on or after November 29, 1999, this rejection might also be overcome by showing that the subject matter of the reference and the claimed invention were, at the time the invention was made, owned by the same person or subject to an obligation of assignment to the same person. See MPEP § 706.02(I)(1) and § 706.02(I)(2).
